

AIMS Group of Companies' acquisition of Sulfur Recovery Engineering Inc.(SRE) brings together decades of experience and the latest technology in support of the sulfur recovery and gas treating industry.

SRE has provided engineering, consulting, training, process simulation, and on-site testing and troubleshooting services to North American and European clients since 1998. The increase in sulfur production in the Middle East over the last decade has resulted in increased need for SRE's specialized services and has helped AIMS to expand rapidly to serve the ever-increasing needs of the Middle East sulfur industry. We're excited about the expanded capabilities and access to experience our mutual clients will gain from our combined experience.

The benefits of this new partnership include:

- Wellhead to stack sulfur-related products and services
- Improved regional access to field testing services
- Rapid accurate analysis of samples in only 5 minutes
- Full Complement of Amine and Sour Water Stripper Services
- Software and modelling capabilities for all gas treating and sulfur recovery units
- Expanded Webinar, Onsite and Public Course training
- Increased International footprint – offices in eight countries
- Training courses in
 - Sulfur Recovery Fundamentals,
 - Advanced Sulfur Recovery,
 - Amine Treating and
 - SRU Reliability and Maintenance

"The acquisition of Sulfur Recovery Engineering (SRE) is another effort to demonstrate our determination to evolve our brand with wider breadth of expertise to better serve industry in the energy sector in middle east and beyond. Our business strategy is to keep ourselves aligned with the vision of the country's leadership of maximizing energy and minimizing emission by optimizing performance of facilities."

Zaheer Juddy

CEO, AIMS Group of Companies

"AIMS' acquisition of Sulfur Recovery Engineering (SRE) instantly expands both companies' reach and bench strength to better serve the needs of clients domestically and internationally. SRE looks forward to continuing to provide the best service, solutions, support, and consultancy as an integral part of the AIMS family of companies."

Don Green

Director, Business Development, SRE

